1. On 11 August 1952, the barracks installation on Ulmenstrasse, Rostock (U 55/O 81), was occupied to capacity by about 1,200 soldiers who wore either red-bordered black or black-bordered crimson epaulets. The tents in front of the installation were also occupied to capacity. Two groups totaling 150 soldiers, most of whom wore black-bordered crimson epaulets and some with red-bordered black epaulets, and armed with rifles, submachine guns or bazookas, entered the installation.
2. On 11 August, the Putlitz Kaserne on Kemeler Strasse was occupied by troops wearing red-bordered black epaulets including some with artillery insignia and tank insignia. About 200 soldiers were training with rifles on the terrain west of the installation. About 20 guns including at least 6 x 100-mm AT, 57-mm AT guns and 4 other guns were seen in the barracks yard. Numerous rocket launchers, [redacted] 1-31 type were in a garage in the rear section of the installation.

- * [REDACTED] Comment. Apparently no changes have taken place at the barracks installation on Ulmenstrasse and the Putlitz Kaserne. The installations are still occupied by units of the [REDACTED] artillery brigade of the XXXX Artz Rifle Corps. [REDACTED] The occupation strength reported in paragraph 3 of the present report is too high considering the capacity of the installation. The actual strength is believed to be closer to the figure mentioned in paragraph 1. The naval units stationed in the installation probably number between 400 and 500 sailors who had occupied the installation prior to the arrival of the army units. The east section referred to [REDACTED] in paragraph 4 is probably the Fueselien Kaserne and the west section is probably the Putlitz Kaserne. The two barracks installations form one block which is separated by the road. It is reported for the first time that the Putlitz Kaserne is occupied by rocket launchers. [REDACTED]
